largely as a matter of choice. Here's a letter from a man who says it far better than I could.

Dear Ann Landers: Women like Blue Lou make me see red. My wife and I have been married 12 years and you'd have to go far to find a happier couple.

I work the night shift from 4:00 p.m. until midnight. I do it as a matter of choice. My wife prefers this shift to the day shift which I had for the first three years of our marriage. Our children are from 11 months of age to 10 years. I'm home shortly after midnight. Seven hours of sleep is plenty for me. I'm up in the morning with the wife and kids and we spend more time together than most day shift people.

A father will find just as much time for his wife and kids as he wants to. The shift he works doesn't have anything to do with it.—JUST PLAIN AL

And now, Dear Readers, a final word from a San Bernardino reader who signs her letter "Day shift Widow."

Dear Ann Landers: I wish to heaven my husband worked nights. At least I'd know where to find him. My wandering Romeo works from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. yet he rarely gets home before midnight. Some wives don't know when they've got it good..

To learn the booby-traps of teenage drinking, write for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Teenage Drinking," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope. Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Country Look Prevails In Spring Sportswear

The fashion news in Spring sportswear is a trend on the rustic, relaxed look of country living. Casual styles that have earned the label of fashion classics are being interpreted in sturdy, natural fabrics that are at home whether the setting is rural or big city.

This season's sportswear collection by Bobbie Brooks, a pace setter in casual fashion trends, is called "Country Looks." It consists of easy-going, basic styles in skirts, culottes, jamaicas, jackets and dresses which are versatile as separates, or complement each other perfectly as coordinatées. Fashioned in such favored fabrics as cotton homespun, jute bur-lap, madras, calico cotton and blue denim, these styles know no bounds of season or setting.

The Broadway Del Amo will salute the "Country Looks" collection with an informal fashion show on Feb. 12 during regular store hours.

Sport outfits and dresses will be modeled by Gail Hyde, Torrance High School; Cathy McCallick, and Sheila Pfeil, Palos Verdes High School; Anna Alden, North High School, and Cheryl Ann McClelland, South High School, all members of The Broadway Del Amo's Hi-Deb Fashion Council.

Guests at the showing may register for a Bobbie Brooks ensemble which will be awarded in the Junior Sports-wear department at 5 p.m.
