New Charm Class Opens At Sears

Beverlee Kelley Charm School of Sears, offering a basic course in charm is opening this week in 15 stores in the Los Angeles area. The series, consisting of 10 one-hour classes a week, is offered at a fee within the budget of every young girl.

Each student will receive training in popularity, personal appearance, facial radiance, wardrobe wonders, hair loveliness, social graces and conversation. Over 900 young girls received this training in 11 stores during the fall.

Girl Scouts can earn their good grooming badges and Camp Fire Girls receive credit toward the group Torch Bearer rank.

All girls' organizations are given a special rate per member with a minimum of four girls from any one group. The course is open to girls nine to 19 years old.

At the completion of the 10 weeks of training, a graduation is held entitled, "Presenting Princess Charming." A pin, designed as a "crown," will be given each graduate.

Instructor in the Torrance Sears will be Janet Hallahan, who has worked as a professional model. She is a member of the PTA board of Sutter School and PPT of Brethren High.

Anyone interested is asked to call the Sears Store of Torrance to assure a reservation in the new class.
