Torrance Pastor Blasts Sunday Closing Proposal

Members of the Torrance Seventh-day Adventist Church, 1610 Acacia Ave., Saturday were told by their minister that the church "will use every honorable means" to defeat a proposed Sunday closing law recently introduced into the California legislature.

Pastor Manson Metcalf, 21529 Dolores St., told the local congregation Saturday that he is encouraging the use of letters, personal contacts, announcements in mass communications media and a continuing citywide educational program to draw public attention to the serious consequences of the proposed measure.

"This bill, S.B. 845, has been said by its author to be a measure which will 'protect the state and its communities from moral, social and economic damage' caused by Sunday selling," Pastor Metcalf said.

"OUR QUESTION is what possible 'moral' damage could result from selling on Sunday an item which on six days of the week it is considered perfectly moral to sell," the minister questioned, "unless a purely religious factor is attached?"

Dividing goods into "essential" and "non-essential" items so far as their sale on Sunday is concerned, the proposed law was termed by Pastor Metcalf "A one day criminal law which makes criminal on Sunday the selling or buying of items which are perfectly legal to sell or buy on any other day of the week."

"In bringing this 'criminal' element to bear this law will add tremendous burdens to our already overburdened law enforcement agencies, to say nothing of the 'police state' tactics of neighbor spying on one-day - criminal neighbor," Pastor Metcalf told his church.

"WHEN LEGISLATION is substituted for the personal, moral standards of the individual we are heading for trouble in California," said Pastor Metcalf. "Stores will close on Sunday when families do not purchase."

"The time spent in formulating such legislation might better be used in building up the spiritual life of our citizens. Moral standards of society are meaningless except as they come from the heart rather than from legislation."
