The Wilder Brothers Return to Marineland

Back again for their sixth appearance at Marineland Restaurant in Palos Verdes are the perennial entertainment favorites of the dining establishment, The Wilder Brothers and their Swingin' Sextet. And take it from the smart-set, who've already made reservations — they're worth a look 'n' listen!

The comedy-vocal-instrumental group opened this week (Tuesday, Oct. 22) in the "Porpoise Room," unwrapping their hilarity and vitality for the fun-seeking cocktail and dinner crowd. Their musical artistry, vocal talent and mirthful antics top the bill through Nov. 24.

SPARKING A fast-paced repertoire is The Wilder Brothers' big-sounding band with its full-scale arrangements. Instrumental treatments of fabulous orchestras of the swinging years, the 30s and 40s, clownfully interspersed with zany song numbers, provide show-stopping entertainment at Marineland Restaurant.

In bringing back the ebullient song and fun team, led by Warner, George and Walt Wilder, owner George M. Foster once again responded to demands of patrons clamoring for their exuberant comedy and richly-toned instrumentals.

FOR THE benefit of the uninitiated, those who wonder what all the "Porpoise Room" cheering and applauding is about, The Wilder Brothers are presenting several different madcap shows every night except Mondays.

INGE PRIZE WINNER . . . Penny Ransom and John Goff will appear in Palos Verdes Players production, "Picnic" Oct. 25-26 and Nov. 1-2 at Montemagala Auditorium, Palos Verdes Estates. The William Inge Pulitzer prize winner concerns a muscle boy who steals a small-town beauty away from a college man. Curtain time will be 8:15 and ticket information may be obtained by telephoning Mrs. Ernest Good, FR 7-2479.
