Hollywood Reporter

By Mike Connolly

Mike's Thursday Mailbag
Dear Sir: Is it true that Liz and Dickie had a fight and he beat her up badly at their hotel in London?—Frank Gerlach, Waukegan, Ill.

Dear Frank: I don't know to what extent but I do know they got a $750 bill for damages to the furnishings in the suite.

Dear Sir: Is Dinah Shore's new husband really a plasterer? — Pauline Lunker, Stinnett Texas.

Dear Pauline: Maurice Smith started as one and worked up to a building contractor. More power to him.

Dear Mike: Let me inform you about that Liz Taylor girl. She may have money but let me warn you that won't stop her from getting into BIG trouble with the law. It's her head that's ailing her, not her knee. And I'm going to advertise it. P.S.: My lawyer says she owes her lawyer PLENTY! — Mary Leigh, Denver, Colo.

Dear Mary: Whatever the size, Liz can afford it. She already has over $5,000,000 in cold cash stashed away for her work in "Cleopatra."

Dear Mr. Connolly: Don't you ever get tired of covering that soul tired, old Hollywood beat, year after year? — Frances L. Meredith, Wyoming, Ohio.

Dear Frances: No, because it's never tired and it's never old — not with new stars like Ann-Margaret coming along all the time! — and it sure beats digging ditches.

Dear Mike: It occurs to me what a wonderfully ideal candidate is Peter O'Toole for Liz Taylor's next victim — and all within easy reach, too, since he's now co-starring with Massa Richard Burton in "Becket!" — Sonya Cramer, Bala Cynwyd, Pa.

Dear Sonya: The Irish (and I speak from experience) are not the pushovers for the Liz-like British-born charm that the Welsh are... Incidentally, how about you and Frank Gerlach and Mary Leigh getting together and writing a book?

Dear Sir: I am a writer of lyrics and have written two for Brenda Lee, the teen-age star, to sing. Could you tell me how to reach her? — W. F. Maass, Jr., Victoria, Texas.

Dear W. F.: Write to her at the William Morris Agency, 151 El Camino Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Dear Mike: What's happened to Vaughn Monroe, the "Reaching for the Moon" man?—Karyl Straus, El Segundo, Calif.

Dear Karyl: He may soon be coming your way. He just signed for the road company of "The Music Man."

Dear Mike: I've read where Hollywood has been having trouble casting "The Fanny Brice Story." I saw a girl on a Dinah Shore TV show who would be perfect for the part. Her name is Barbra Streisand. —Mrs. B. E. Gibbs, Peoria, Illinois.

Dear Mrs. Gibbs: Fanny's daughter, Francis Brice Stark, feels about Barbra as you do. Frances and her husband, producer Ray Stark, have signed this sensational girl for the part, although they did it long before Barbra did Dinah's show. They decided on the night she opened in "I Can Get It for You Wholesale" on Broadway, singing that funny "Miss Marmelstein" song.

Dear Mike: Can you fill me in on the whereabouts of Don Murray, the "Hoodlum Priest" star? Was he not divorced from Hope Lange? My interest is in his charitable project, the street urchins of Naples, Italy. I am most interested in that project. — M. C. Merrill, Philadelphia, Pa.

Dear M. C.: Write to Don care of General Service Studios, 1041 N. Formosa Ave., Hollywood. He and Hope were divorced in July, 1961, and he married Betty Johnson in August, 1962. Hope was a Miss Rheingold runner-up and Betty was a model so I guess Don digs models as well as street urchins.

Dear Mr. Connolly: I am sure George Maharis' other fans, as well as myself, would appreciate knowing the state of his health, is he in New York or Hollywood, and will we be seeing him in the near future on any TV shows? — Marie Smith, Brooklyn, New York.

Dear Marie: George scrambled the "Route 66" series because (he said) of illness. Screen Gems, his studio, has suspended him from working for anyone else. However, he may do the sequel to "The Interns" (a movie) for Screen Gems' motion picture parent, Columbia Studios. If so, that would settle the squabble. And I think he'll recover from his illness like a bunny if he gets that movie part!

(Mike Connolly welcomes all readers' questions, but due to the large volume of mail received, it may be some time before the answer to your question appears in his column.)

Hawkins Goes To Capital For Studies

James Hawkins, senior government major at the University of Redlands, was one of four students from the university to be selected to participate in the honors program offered in cooperation with the American University, Washington, D. C., this fall.

He will spend the fall semester in Washington selecting some phase of government in action for independent study and exploration.

Hawkins is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Hawkins, 176 Los Miradores. Former student body president of South High School, he is a member and former president of the Young Democrats Club and was freshman class president.
