Dear Ann Landers: I hope you will answer this in your usual breezy, up-to-the-minute style. Please don't turn narrow-minded on me or I'll just die.

I am taking a summer course at UCLA. I have rented a comfortable room near the campus with a nice family. I can have my meals with the family but it would cost $20 a month extra. I am trying to get by on as little as possible and this is why I am writing.

A very nice boy who is in my sociology class has a nice apartment with a cute kitchenette. The boy has offered to buy the groceries and I can have all my meals with him if I will do the cooking.

I am a good cook and would like to take him up on his offer if you say it is O.K. Also it will give me a chance to experiment with some new recipes. What do you say?—SUNNY

Dear Sunny: Have your meals with the family, Toots. And if you are so eager to experiment with new recipes ask the woman if you can prepare some of the meals in her kitchen. She'll probably be delighted.

You are putting a pretty low price on your services if you are willing to hire yourself out as a cook and bottle-washer for $5 a week. (P.S.: I apologize if this advice isn't in keeping with my usual breezy, up-to-the-minute style.)

Dear Ann Landers: I have a problem which may not seem important to others but it has caused me no end of unhappiness.

My husband is a garage mechanic. He is one of the finest men who ever walked in shoe leather. I wouldn't trade him for Richard Burton. But his hands and nails never look clean. There is always a trace of grease around his knuckles and under his fingernails.

Whenever we are with friends or relatives I have the uncomfortable feeling they are noticing this. No one has ever said anything but it bothers me.

I told him about my feelings a few months ago. It was the first and only time I ever brought it up in the 10 years we've been married. He says there is nothing wrong with

Narbonne Graduates to Reside in Harbor City

Miss Judith Thomas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin W. Thomas, of 27241 Eastvale Road, Rolling Hills, was escorted down the aisle of St. John Fisher Church, Palos Verdes, by her father on June 22 to pledge her marriage vows to Mr. Leonard R. Sanders. Msgr. McCarthy conducted the ceremony.

Carrying a white and peach sweetheart rose bouquet, Miss Thomas was gowned in silk organza and chantilly lace. Her lace bodice featured long sleeves and the full skirt was floor length.

Miss Susan Thomas, maid of honor and sister to the bride wore a lemon organza and lace gown with short, bell skirt, and hat to match. Her bouquet was of peach tea roses.

Misses Pamela Michaelis and Bonnie Lindstrom, bridesmaids, were gowned in peach organza and lace, with short, bell skirts and hats to match.

Our children who are 8 and 11 years of age have told us that grandma doesn't keep her promises and she denies having made them.

My husband doesn't feel we should burden the children with the facts because they are too young to understand. Also, he fears they may say something which might hurt her feelings. How should I deal with this? Can you help?—NOT COPING

Dear Not: Facts about mental illness should be part of the education of all children. Ignorance is the real burden—not facts. If your children are properly informed they will have compassion for their ailing grandmother and will treat her with kindness and understanding.
