Painting the Stucco Home

Answers to your questions about the new "Dutch Boy" Nalcrete

Q. How does Nalcrete differ from ordinary stucco paints?

A. Nalcrete looks fresh and uniform from the start, even over problem surfaces such as patched stucco or alkali-laden new cement. Nalcrete holds its even color for years without fading.

Q. How can you avoid "lap marks" when you paint stucco?

A. Use Nalcrete. You can't make a "lap mark" even if you try. Paint a section, let it dry... start again with a 6-inch overlap. When this dries, you literally can't tell where you started painting again.

Q. Is it true that Nalcrete "breathes"?

A. Yes, and amazingly, that's the secret of its "waterproofness." While water droplets cannot get through the finish, water vapor from inside can get out, thus preventing the protection of Nalcrete from breaking down because of cracking, scaling or blistering!

Q. What does weather do to "Dutch Boy" Nalcrete?

A. Absolutely nothing. Nalcrete resists effects of sun, fog and smog. A good rain simply washes away dirt, leaving a clean surface without damp spots.

Q. What special sealer do you use?

A. None! "Dutch Boy" Nalcrete is its own sealer. One coat seals and paints. However, we recommend 2 coats for extra years of wear.

Q. Is Nalcrete available in colors as well as in white?

A. Yes! A wide range, from deep to light, selected from the "Dutch Boy" Color Gallery—plus a number of easy intermixes—all especially beautiful on Western Homes.
