Dear Editor

Check Warning To Merchants

Torrance Press, Editor,
At the last session of the California Legislature, the law relating to Notarial Protests was removed from Penal Code section 476a, regarding bad checks, (no account, not sufficient funds, etc.). The practical application of this change is that no criminal prosecution may be undertaken on checks drawn on out of state banks.

By removing the provisions governing the use of protests the legislature has made it necessary for the prosecution to produce a bank witness with his records from such an out-of-state bank. It is believed that the expense of such a witness will be prohibitive and will in effect forestall the arrest of a person using such checks. It will not be possible to correct this situation before the next session of legislature, if at all. It is therefore suggested that all persons cashing checks drawn on banks located out of state, do so with great caution, as any assistance from law enforcement Agencies will be extremely costly and it will probably become necessary to assume these expenses with no guarantee that he will be reimbursed.

One youngster reminded the group that "not everything kids do is juvenile delinquency—some of it is human nature."

Sgt. Cook explained that there is no single cause for juvenile delinquency but that it is a question of "multiple causation." Sometimes the trouble can be traced to the home, sometimes to outside influences.

WHAT IS BEING DONE
Church programs for youngsters was cited as one of the wholesome ways in channeling their energies in constructive directions.

Don Kelley, of the First Baptist church, stated that the church offers him and other youngsters a program "which is not 'different' but offered in a different way."

"There is a clean, highly moral atmosphere without preaching," he said. He also indicated that "youth wants a challenge" and that responsibility and a program which keeps them busy throughout their leisure time are the best answers to the problem.

A juvenile spokesman for one of the Torrance Police Department sponsored car clubs informed the audience of the club's activities designed to "pull boys of the street." He mentioned basketball programs, car building, dances, car rodeos, and attempts to obtain a drag strip for supervised driving.

PTA activities which bring parents closer to the interests of their children; group TV studies and evaluations; Recreation Department activities; parental leadership in organizing activities for their children (such as scout groups); and community-sponsored all-night graduation parties are among the programs which are offered in this community.

WHAT IS NEEDED
"Parents should provide more time to their children," Mrs. Herma Tillim stated. "There is a need for proper supervision and volunteers who would devote time to organizing youth programs. There is a great need to treat children as people."

"Part of the answer lies with the newspapers," Mrs. Francis Stoeckle stated. "They should take the bad news off the front page replace it with the good things which youngsters do."

"Every effort should be made at good publicity," Frank Kristufek agreed.

Other suggestions included educational films on the dangers of narcotics; teaching of religious heritage in the schools; mental hygiene clinic for parents as well as children; expanded recreational programs; drag strips and a teenage canteen.
