WHAT COLOR, PLEASE?

Colored telephone display helps Pacific Telephone service representative Betty McCammett in pursuit of her new talent as an interior decorator. After an extensive training program, service representatives in the Torrance business office become mighty adept at recommending suitable colored telephones to blend with today's color-splashed interiors.

Telephone Company Keeps Up With Home Color Styles

Torrance telephone service representative Betty McCammett is becoming mighty adept as an interior decorator and on Pacific Telephone's time.

Oddly enough, she has the company's wholehearted approval while in pursuit of her new talent, for she is one of seven service representatives in the public office at 1307 Cravens who currently spend much of their time as consultants in a new phase of interior decoration.

After a thorough training program, representatives are recommending suitable colored telephones to blend with today's color-splashed interiors. "I guess we've heard about and discussed nearly every color combination," the communications worker said. "Of course it's impossible to match perfectly every shade of fabric wallpaper or woodwork but with a selection of eight pastels we can blend colored telephones with any interior."

Shades are red, green, yellow, beige, brown, gray, blue and ivory, the latter proving the most popular as it blends with nearly any other color. Decor-blending is another new and interesting phase of the service representatives job, for a better and more complete service to the customer.
