Madonna Row Art Exhibit Again Displayed at ECC

On display until Jan. 1 is the annual presentation of El Camino College's famed Madonna Row.

Lined before the buildings which face Crenshaw Blvd. reproductions of 11 masterpieces of art work featuring the Madonna and Child are lighted throughout the night so that passers-by may view the Christmas display at any time throughout the holiday season. The campus is on Crenshaw between Redondo and Manhattan Beach Blvds. Utilization of the campus periphery road will enable viewers to pause in their cars while seeing the art works accomplished under the direction of Miss Mildred K. Walker and her students.

Subject of this year's addition is the 12th century Byzantine mosaic scene, "Nativity."

In making the copy as near the original as possible, artists working on the mosaic are filling areas with stucco to follow the art work as it now appears in its repaired condition.

Imported Venetian glass was used by the teacher and her students in the preparation of the accurate reproduction.

Appearing with the "Nativity" in the college display are eight oils, another mosaic, and a stained glass window valued at $7000. The latter, added to the collection two years ago, was prepared by Miss Walker, Joseph Gadden, once a student of the Row originator and now a member of the college art faculty, and by student artists.

Madonna Row was originally conceived by Miss Walker as a

Early Holiday Phoning Urged

If you're one of many Torrance telephone users who plan to place out-of-town calls to friends and relatives during the holiday season, Pacific Telephone manager R. S. Pyle offers a word of advice: place your long distance calls early to avoid unnecessary delays.

He also said that by placing your calls several days before representation of the real Christmas spirit. It has become a leading tradition of the college and the Southland, spectators traveling long distances each year to view the work included in the Row.

Christmas or during the period between Christmas and New Year Day most delays and resulting disappointments to friends and family back home can be avoided.
