Mental Health Group Seeks Drive Volunteers

A call for volunteers in the Torrance area to aid in the Mental Health Month Fund drive during May went out today from Mrs. Nila L. Meyers, who recently was named area chairman by John M. Stahl, campaign chairman.

Mrs. Meyers, of 22015 Garston Ave., pointed to the fact that three out of five families have had, are having, or will have some personal experience with mental illness. "More persons are hospitalized for mental illness than any other reason or combination of reasons," she said.

"The Los Angeles County Mental Health Association has taken a leadership position in helping to underwrite more adequate research; contributing to the training of more professional personnel, and working toward the expansion and improvement of treatment facilities."

A native of California, Mrs. Meyers has resided in Los Angeles County for 25 years and is the mother of four children.

Mrs. Meyers urged those interested in volunteering to assist in the mental health drive to call her at her home, TE 5-6524.

Mental Health Topic of Mother of Twins Meet

Mental health, recognized as an increasingly important aspect of a family's over-all well-being, held the attention of South Bay Branch, Mothers of Twins Clubs Inc., at a recent meeting in the Plush Horse, 1700 Pacific Coast Hwy.

A two-act drama, "More Than I Can See," written by club member La Vada Weir, depicted the common neuroses found in a family. It also represents, author Weir says, "the only play I know of which shows group therapy performed on stage."

Medical Advice
Mrs. Weir, a Hollywood Riviera resident at 905 Calle Miramar, wrote the play on request of the South Bay Mental Health Committee, with medical advice supplied by Dr. Peter Cusvich, director of San Pedro Mental Hygiene Clinic.

It premiered last May, and since has played to a number of local audiences.

Mrs. Weir, who has twin 4-year-old daughters Joan and Tracy, has written a drama column for a newspaper for three years, and in addition authors critical reviews and other articles.

Graduate Study
She taught seven years of high school English and drama following graduate study at University of Southern California.

The club will set in motion plans to aid a needy family at Easter by providing food baskets.

Members will meet at the home of Mrs. Genda Adams, 4723 Jacques Street, Torrance, 8 p.m., March 26 to fill and decorate the baskets.

The club also will aid the American Cancer Society with donation of proceeds from the April fashion show, to the charitable organization.
