Christmas Contest Winners Revealed

Winners of Southwest Manuscripters annual Christmas contest were announced at its recent meeting at Clark Stadium, Hermosa Beach.

Anthony Garavente, South Bay teacher and resident of Manhattan Beach, was first-prize winner in the short story category. Garavente, a newcomer to the short story field, is also gathering material for a forthcoming novel.

Other winners were Don Christie, Torrance, 2nd prize, short story; Ross Potter, Redondo Beach, 1st prize, article; Leona Walker, Lomita, 2nd prize, article; Dolly Walker, Lomita, 1st prize, poetry; Lani Bolotin, Manhattan Beach, 2nd prize, poetry.

The meeting featured a Christmas exchange of books and election of officers for the following year. New officers are Loren L. Roberts, president; Anthony Garavente, sales; Wanda Smith, hospitality; Pauline Johnston, publicity; Mary Edith Lindsay, secretary; Joseph Nelson, treasurer; and Wilma Butelaar, program.

Ray Banks reported the inclusion of one of his short stories in an anthology, "Decade from Fantasy and Science Fiction," and Ramonita O'Conner reported a ghost-writing assignment.

Manuscript sales for the past month were Wanda Irwin's expose, "The Mail Sex," in Brunette Magazine, and Polly Booth's short story, "The-Headed Reject," published in German and Norwegian markets.

All those interested in writing are invited to the next Manuscripters meeting at Clark Stadium, 861 Valley Drive, Hermosa Beach, January 20, at 8 p.m. For further information call Mary Edith Lindsay secretary, FR 2-6159.

Tenth Christmas Celebrated by Welk at Aragon

Lawrence Welk will celebrate his tenth Christmas at the Aragon Ballroom at Pacific Ocean Park with two gala evenings featuring Christmas as well as dance music.

Friday evening, December 23, and Sunday evening, December 25, the Champagne Music Makers will play by the light of an enormous Christmas tree in the ballroom, with everybody joining in Christmas carols.

Many of the entrants in Welk's current waltz contest, now in its eighth week, will join in the holiday festivities. Welk and his orchestra will play at the Aragon Sunday instead of Saturday Christmas weekend, inasmuch as POP and the Aragon will be closed the Saturday before Christmas.

PRUNE GRAPES
Prune grapes and berries now or next month. When in doubt, ask your nurserymen for pruning advice.
