

UP AND OVER — Two persons were injured Wednesday afternoon when this privately owned aircraft flipped over at Torrance airport. Taken to Little Company of Mary Hospital for treatment of severe lacerations were Frank G. Penny, 35, and his wife, Susan, both of Westchester. Firemen called to the scene doused the aircraft with water to dampen chances of fire. Plane caught crosswind while landing, turned off landing strip and hit soft dirt.

Realtors Become Students at Tues. Night Session

Salesmen and realtors will become students next Tuesday evening under the tutelage of Herbert Hawkins, one of the Southland's outstanding real estate brokers.

Hawkins will speak at the fourth session of the salesmen's seminar sponsored by the Torrance-Lomita Board of Realtors as part of a continuing program of education for board members. The seminar is under the directorship of Lee Dawson, Torrance realtor, and a committee of Board members.

Hawkins entered real estate in 1946 while still in college. Soon after his graduation he opened his own office in Temple City. He now has three offices and a staff of thirty people. Last year his company sales totaled over $9,000,000. He has served as president of the Alhambra District Board of Realtors and regional vice-president for the California Real Estate Association. He is instructed in the Alhambra High School Adult Education program and the UCLA certificate program.

President Jack Schmidt of the Board urges all members and interested persons to attend the Tuesday evening sessions, 7:30 at the Board Hall, 22833 S. Arlington, Torrance.

Torrance Firm Gets NASA Moon Rocket Subcontract

In what is a major development in the U.S. race to the moon, the Tylan Corporation of Torrance, has been selected by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration to develop a ground check-out power supply system for the Saturn moon rocket. The ten-story Saturn booster vehicle, now under construction at the Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, Alabama, weighs over a million pounds. It is scheduled to be operational in 1964 for sending the three-man Apollo spacecraft to the moon and to boost a space station into orbit around the earth. According to Tylan officials Charles Drexel and Dan LeMay, the Tylan power supply furnishes precise direct current to check out portions of the electrical equipment in the booster. Performance, size and reliability were key factors influencing the selection.

New Engineering Head at Torrance Steel Plant

W. Kenneth Scott has been appointed superintendent of engineering and maintenance of the Torrance Works of U. S. Steel's Columbia-Geneva Division, it was announced today by E. C. Kinyon, general superintendent.

Scott was transferred from the division's San Francisco headquarters where he had been assistant chief engineer-design and consulting since 1959. He succeeds Ray W. Pett, Torrance Works superintendent of engineering and maintenance since 1959.

In one of three lateral transfers simultaneously announced by Kinyon, Pett was named superintendent of rolling mill. He succeeds William M. Montgomery who moves to superintendent of open hearth, replacing Robert J. Prout. Prout has been appointed assistant to the general superintendent, a new position at the Torrance Works.

Scott brings to the Torrance Works 40 years' experience in the steel industry. He began his career with the Otis Steel Company plate mill, Cleveland, Ohio. Two years later he joined the former Columbia Steel Company as a crane operator in the Pittsburg Works. By 1939 he was electrical supervisor on major development projects at Pittsburg, and shortly thereafter became maintenance superintendent of the Pittsburg Defense Foundry.

ONE MAN'S OPINION
Gentlemen:
Regarding your editorial and picture "Jungle of Signs:"

1. Citizens who bother to vote do not depend on the signs to inform themselves of the candidates worth, so they are worthless.
  2. They serve no useful purpose at all, other than to messily clutter up the city and obstruct vision.
  3. All advertising should be confined to the newspapers, magazines, radio or TV, which are the proper advertising channels of communication, with no invasion of privacy such as telephoning and blaring loudspeakers on trucks roaming neighborhoods, and cluttering the mails, which usually end up in the wastebasket.
- If the voters really want it, and the newspapers can help by taking a definite stand, without fear or favor, to get an ordinance prohibiting useless Torrance roadside advertising other than on the place of business. When something is worth advertising, word-of-mouth and other lawful means are more effective.
- It is just a matter of time before this will all be outlawed anyway as more lawful government minded people move into the Torrance area.
- Against Cluttering Useless Signs
