AVOIDS HIGHER TAXE
Proposition 1-A will avoid rather than require an increase in state taxes, UCLA's acting Dean of the Graduate School of Business Administration said today.

"Passage of Proposition 1-A will avoid the kind of immediate increase necessary for a pay-as-you-go program of construction for higher education by spreading the costs over an appropriate period. of pay-as-you-use," Dean George Robbins declared.

'Twelfth of Never' Play Continues for 4 Weekends

A poignant story of teenage marriage and its problems is the theme of an original drama currently presented by the Hampton Players.

Sensitively written, "The Twelfth of Never" by Duke Yelton deals with the conflict between two young lovers and their parents, who try to break up their marriage for selfish reasons.

Director Jay Stephens' cast consists of many with professional backgrounds. Mary Station, who plays the teenage wife, Hedy, has been seen in G.E. Theatre, Dr. Kildare and Day in Court. Fred Vaugeois, who takes the part of her young husband, Dan, has played leads at the Pasadena Playhouse and is a scholarship student there.

Michelle Richards has the role of Hedy's mother, Kay. She has appeared with Little Theatre groups in Hollywood, Westchester and Santa Monica. Ed Siani plays Roger, the lonely man befriended by Kay. Ed has appeared in "Rawhide" and is active in little theatre groups in the area.

Molly and Jeff, parents of the teenage husband, are portrayed by Mary Buckley and Austin Rheingold.

Edwin Cook, who takes the part of bartender Wilson, has many TV and film credits and is an active member of several theatre groups in the South Bay.

Author Duke Yelton has had three plays produced since coming to California from Idaho.

Produced by Joe Glasier, "The Twelfth of Never" will be presented this weekend, Oct. 5 and 6, 12 and 13 and 19 and 20 at the Hampton Theatre, 100 Wall St., Redondo Beach. Reservations may be made by calling Bel-moral Antiques, 372-8546.
