

LAND FILL TRIAL SET FOR AREA DEVELOPER

Long-time Torrance resident and land developer Ted Koletos will stand trial Wednesday on charges brought against him by the city of Rolling Hills Estates arising out of his attempt to improve a parcel of land in that city.

Koletos obtained a permit from the county of Los Angeles to level and fill in a 3 1/2-acre plot on the south-west corner of Palos Verdes Blvd. N. and Narbonne. After county officials approved his grading plans, Koletos said, they found it would make a convenient disposal for some 8000 cubic yards of earth left over from a nearby county road project. An estimated $8000 was saved county taxpayers because the dirt needed only to be hauled a short distance to Koletos' property.

At the time, road department officials welcomed the chance to fill in a 35-foot deep ravine that bordered Palos Verdes, thus eliminating a severe traffic hazard. But before the fill and grading project could be completed, Rolling Hills city fathers stepped in to halt Koletos' project.

"City planning commissions objected to my plans," Koletos, a former area farmer, stated, "after the county had approved them and issued the grading permit. Every bit of the filling, grading and compacting of the dirt was done under continuous county inspection to rigid specifications," he added.

However, Rolling Hills Estates will attempt to prove that the project is a detriment to the community when the case is tried before South Bay Presiding Judge Otto Willet.

During the exercise, called Tien Ping IV in Chinese, elements of the U. S. Army's 173rd Airborne Brigade and airborne units of the Army of the Republic of China parachuted into the maneuver area in order to repel a simulated aggressor force. The Chinese and American Air Forces provided close air support throughout the exercise.

The 20-year-old soldier, a parachute rigger in Company C of the brigade's 173d Support Battalion on Okinawa, entered the Army in October 1962, completed basic training at Fort Ord, Calif., and was last assigned at Fort Lee, Va.
