

... Let's Go

By LARRY MACARAY

LONDON — It was raining lightly here as we landed, but we didn't mind it a bit. Only 40 minutes from Paris by air—by train and ferry it takes all day. Rather glad to leave Paris a day early and enjoy that extra day here in London.

As luck would have it, we happened to sit next to a girl (in the airplane) who couldn't speak English. I thought she was French until she motioned to me that she couldn't fill out her landing card. I saw that she had a Russian passport and proceeded to fill out her card for her. Her name was Bernara.

It's quite unusual to see a Russian traveling—but in her case she listed her occupation as "actress"—this meant, as I later found out, that she was a dancer with the Bolshoi Ballet and that she had been flying from Moscow to London. The ballet is finishing up its London appearance this week at the Royal Festival Theatre.

SHE LOOKED very lost and bewildered as I filled out her card. I thought that would be the end of it. As we all proceeded from the airplane to the passport and customs area, she seemed to linger along with us. We guided her to the right line to show her passport. My wife and I went through right away and we noticed she was having trouble.

She indicated to us (by sign language) that telegrams had been sent from Moscow and there would be people meeting her. We kept reassuring her that these friends could not get into the customs area and that they would undoubtedly be waiting outside. Noting that the customs people didn't know what to do with her, I went over and explained to them who she was and what she was doing in London.

That much was accomplished and all that remained was to go down to the baggage area and claim our baggage and have it inspected by customs. My wife and I only travel with one bag apiece—but little Bernara had three, and heavy ones at that. She motioned that she had to have many changes of costumes for her dancing.

BY THIS TIME it was apparent that if we didn't take care of Bernara, no one else would, so I grabbed her bags along with ours and had them inspected by the officials. Of course I had to explain her circumstances and that someone would be meeting her. This later proved to be false as her telegrams had never been received. No one was there to meet her—I had her name broadcast over the public address system—all to no avail.

Obituaries

Anthony Perry

Requiem mass for Anthony Cardoza Perry, 67, was celebrated yesterday at Nativity Catholic Church. Rosary was recited Friday evening at the Halverson-Leavell Mortuary Chapel.

Mr. Perry, who resided at 1403 Madrid Ave., died at his home. He was employed at the Douglas Aircraft facility here.

He is survived by his widow, Mary; three sons, Norbert, Leonard, and Robert Perry; two daughters, Anita Gemme and Vivienne Perry, and three grandchildren.

Cecil W. Bierce

Funeral services for Cecil Ward Bierce, 73, of 17503 Glenburn Ave., were held Monday at the Inglewood Park Mortuary-Cemetery Chapel with the Rev. H. Earl Kuester officiating.

Mr. Bierce had lived in Torrance for 15 years. He was retired from the Union Oil Co. He died in a Long Beach hospital following a brief illness.

Surviving Mr. Bierce are his widow, Mable M.; a son, Duane B. Bierce of Stockton, Calif.; a brother, Ross Bierce in South Dakota; three sisters, Bonnie Herring and Ida Ketchum, both in South Dakota, and Gloria Meyers in Idaho; two grandchildren, and a great-grandchild.

Interment was in Inglewood Park Cemetery.

know where to go or who was to meet her. With a burst of surprise—she managed to say "Grand Hotel." I ran to the telephone and proceeded to phone the Grand and let the Bolshoi Ballet people know that we had their little prize. No—the Grand had never heard of the Bolshoi Ballet. A last chance—I could call the Russian Embassy. They finally answered and as I tried to explain, the lady said that everyone was gone Saturday afternoon.

Bernara took the phone and began to speak in Russian—yes, they understood and they were sorry that no one had been there to meet her. They would send a car for her in one hour. What a relief! All this business had taken three hours since landing in London, but leaving her alone would have been unthinkable. She began to cry as she kissed my wife then shook my hand in gratitude. The last thing we saw as we descended on the escalator was a little figure standing and waving goodbye to us.

Mrs. Haneline and her three children were taken to Little Company of Mary Hospital. Wood, suffering cuts on his face and legs, also was taken to the hospital.

Mrs. Haneline badly bruised her left eye. Her sons, David, 7, and Scott, 5, suffered cuts on their legs and faces. A daughter, Ann Marie, 4, suffered no visible injuries, but was taken to the hospital for observation.

IN A THIRD accident here, a 2-year-old Tres Reid suffered bruises and was taken to Little Company of Mary Hospital. The child was injured when a truck and car collided in the Riviera section.

Police said the two vehicles approached a blind intersection and failed to slow sufficiently to watch opposing traffic. The truck, driven by Wade A. Coen, 18, of Manhattan Beach, came to rest in the front lawn at 167 Via La Ciruela. Driver of the car was Pauline M. Reid, 20, of 517 Avenue G, Redondo Beach.

Neither driver was injured.

GLENN L. MORNING

Redondo Church to Host San Francisco Lecturer

Glenn L. Morning of San Francisco will give a Christian Science lecture in Redondo Beach on Sept. 14, discussing how a spiritual standpoint in life turns trouble into opportunity.

The lecture is being sponsored by First Church of Christ, Scientist, and will take place at 8 p.m. in the church edifice at 527 S. Broadway. Title of the lecture is "What Determines Your Standpoint?"

Mr. Morning is a recognized teacher and practitioner of Christian Science, whose interest in the religion began while he was a student at Drake University in his native Iowa. He later did graduate work in piano and composition at the American Conservatory of Music in Chicago, and traveled widely as a concert pianist and theater musician. In 1955, he began devoting full time to religion and was officially accredited in the Christian Science healing ministry.

He is now on tour as a member of the Board of Lec-

Church Leaders to Join Stake Conference Here

Three prominent leaders of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon), Salt Lake City, Utah, will attend a Stake Conference of the Torrance Stake next Saturday and Sunday.

They are Reuel E. Christensen, a member of the Missionary Committee, and R. Paul Thompson and Kathleen R. Carpenter, representing the Young Men's and Young Women's Mutual Improvement Associations of the Church.

General session of the conference will be held Sunday at 9:30 a.m. and 2 p.m. in the Torrance Stake Center. They will be conducted by Stake President Roland Earl Gagon of Rolling Hills Estates. Visitors are welcome.

Elder Christensen is a former president of the Great Lakes Mission. He is a graduate of Snow College and attended BYU. He served several terms in the Utah Legislature and has been active in civic and farm organizations. He also fulfilled a mission to the Australian Mission.

Elder Thompson is principal of the Utah School for the Blind. He is now serving on the Music Committee of the YMMIA Board.

Special meetings for missionary and MIA leaders will be held Saturday.
