

You Have to File Return If Income Exceeds $600

By REYNOLDS KNIGHT
Many people missed the Friday deadline for filing their federal income tax returns because they honestly think they don't have to file.

Those who earned less than $600, but whose pay was subject to a withholding, should file a return in order to collect a refund which would be more than $600. A child with $600 or more income must file. A self-employed person who had $400 or more net earnings must file a Form 1040 to compute his Social Security self-employment tax, even though he may owe no income tax.

High Taxes May Eliminate People from Tomorrowland

By PHILIP E. WATSON
County Assessor

In preparation for a speech before the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, I have just completed some research into what was happening to our growing urban areas and the tax structure that supports them.

All of us are familiar with the "City of Tomorrow" type of story in the Sunday magazines—complete with artist's renderings of the smogless, slumless, dream city of the future.

In such a city there is no crime, no juvenile delinquency. The parks are green, the factories masterpiece pieces of architectural design, the homes and apartments filled with electronic servants so that human hands need never touch garbage, dirty dishes, unmade beds, or dusty floors.

USUALLY, the writer sets the Year 2000 for this millennium. And it's a lovely prospect to contemplate as we look around our smog-filled, automobile-choked, badly housed, crime ridden cities of 1966.

Yet one notices a peculiar thing when looking at pictures of the dream city of the Year 2000 with its high rise buildings, 150-mile per hour elevated trains, manikured greenbelts and Dick Tracy type space coupes. There are no visible people.

This may be purely accidental. Perhaps the artist didn't want to disturb the concept with anything so unpredictable as human beings. On the other hand it may be prophetic. A much more sobering view of the future is contained in a recently published study done by the University of Southern California Research Institute for Business and Economics.

THE STUDY—which analyzes the major causes for property tax increases—notes that local government expenditures have tripled in the past 15 years as the result of increased population and the demand for more and better public services.

Looking to the future the study reports ominously that if expenditures continue to increase at the same rate in the next 15 years as they have in the past 15, we will be faced with an average $22 property tax rate by 1980.

If this comes true, the absence of people in the lovely pictures of the Year 2000 is understandable. No one will be able to afford this Paradise.

Actually, many people in Los Angeles County—where total tax rates now average $9.00—are already finding that property taxes have passed the point where it is economically possible for them to keep their homes in the non-Paradise city of 1966. As bills increase each year, more and more taxpayers will find themselves in this same situation.

OBVIOUSLY, somewhere between now and 1980's impossible $22 tax rate, we must do more than merely talk about overhauling our tax and spending structure—we must do something about it. The problem of providing government to our growing urban areas is, of course, a complex one.

I think the first thing we must do is to put a top limit on property taxes—so that it no longer must bear the burden of all the costs of local government not really available from other sources.

Our office's proposal for a Constitutional amendment to put a 2 per cent limit on property taxes is once again in the hopper in Sacramento.

I hope that our state lawmakers will face the issue squarely so that the tax nightmare of 1980 does not destroy any dream for the Year 2000.

The ultimate disgrace would be to build that city of the future—with its beautiful buildings and beautiful parks—with no one to live in it.

Gas Companies Pledge To Meet Area's Needs

An unqualified commitment to provide Southern California with all the natural gas the public interest requires "faster and more economically" than anyone else has been made before the Federal Power Commission in Washington, D.C.

John Ormsa, vice president of Pacific Lighting Service and Supply Co. of Los Angeles, told FPC commissioners that three affiliated Pacific Lighting gas utilities serving Southern California can deliver additional gas to the area from a minimum of 590 million cubic feet per day to 915 cubic feet per day.

Ormsa also told the FPC the firms would provide consumers in Southern California with benefits ranging from $42 million to $82 million during the first six years in which the additional supply will be delivered, depending on the level of industrial service to be provided.

"WE HAVE committed ourselves upon the record," he said, "to flow all benefits to customers—to our gas customers. Thus, our regulated Tailored Supply Program can be augmented to meet the desires of local air pollution control authorities and still provide important rate benefits to gas customers."

Ormsa said the delivery of the additional 915 million cubic feet per day would provide 100 per cent service to all Southern California industry during an average temperature year.

He made his comments during testimony in support of applications of El Paso Natural Gas Co. and Transwestern Pipeline Co. to deliver additional gas to Southern California for the total market.

THE APPLICATIONS have drawn opposition from Gulf Pacific Pipeline Co., a subsidiary of Tennessee Gas Transmission Co. which wants approval of a direct industrial pipeline plan to serve the power plants of only two large electric utilities.

Such a move, Ormsa declared, would "take our two largest customers, which provide the most benefit to the other customers, and carve out from those sales the profitable portion of the load."

Ormsa also told the FPC that regulation of public utilities in California by the state's Public Utilities Commission "is a substitute for competition in California."

"WHATEVER the outcome of this proceeding may be," he continued, "it is the ultimate consumer who must bear the brunt, or be given the benefit, whatever the case may be."

Ormsa charged Gulf Pacific is not seeking competition, but rather is conducting a "raid in which they alone will gain and everyone else would be the loser." The firm, he said, refused to supply gas to the public—as the Pacific Lighting companies must—and "insists on a right to select only the choicest industrial customers regardless of the cost burdens that its choice thrusts upon the remaining gas consumers."

SCIENCE NEWS—NASA's Orbiting Astronomical Observatory is to the 20th century as Galileo's telescope was to the 17th—a tool to overturn scholastic thought.

The 3,900-pound satellite is designed to provide a platform 500 miles out in space, enabling man to see the heavens from beyond the atmosphere, which veils the plants when viewed from earth.

The system is designed to lock onto the sun, then lock in on various "reference" stars for orientation. Then the system must accept instructions from the ground and point the whole satellite to any target in the heavens and hold it in focus for 50 minutes.

In this fashion the radiations from hundreds of cosmic targets will be reduced to coded data, and then radioed back for computer analysis. Astronomers don't know what the four satellites in the OAO program will discover. But they know enough to expect to be surprised.

OSCAR BOUND—The Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences has nominated the Johnson Wax Co. film, "To Be Alive," which played to more than five million people during its two-year run at the New York World's Fair, for an "Oscar." It is the only Fair film to be so honored.

It has been nominated in the documentary shorts classification and will come before the 2,800 voting members of the Academy at the awards presentation on April 18.

Actually, the nomination is only the latest in a series of honors "To Be Alive" has won. During the run, the film received a special award from the New York Film Critics as "an outstanding achievement in the creative use of the motion picture." It was also given a superior merit award by the National Conference of Christians and Jews for "the single most outstanding achievement by a motion picture."
