

Summer Fun Can Have Drawbacks

By REYNOLDS KNIGHT

Summertime to many Americans means fun in the backyard — barbecuing, swimming in the pool, entertaining relatives and neighbors. However, take care! Make sure you have the right kind and amount of insurance to cover accidents.

The law dictates that you must supervise your property "reasonably" to guard against harm to outsiders. Fair enough. But when it comes down to basics it's WHO got hurt that counts.

A guest stumbles and lands on top of your grill, suffering serious burns. Is it your fault? Not necessarily, says the law, observing that a social guest assumes a reasonable amount of risk. But if that same guest cuts his foot on a piece of glass or trips on a broken step, and you knew about these hazards beforehand, you're liable.

Babysitters, deliverymen, and caterers are considered business visitors and this category needs special attention. They have a right to find your premises reasonably safe. If one of them has an accident your liability becomes acute.

Swimming pools are great fun, but the law, in some states, doesn't think so. For instance, if a very young child stumbles into your empty pool, even though that person may be a trespasser or uninvited guest, the risk is yours. In these states, pool owners are considered to be maintaining an "attractive nuisance." If your dog bites someone — for the first time — a few states will be lenient. However, in the majority of states you're liable.

These are negative aspects of summer fun. To keep the fun positive get yourself the right kind of insurance. Your own agent can advise you.

NOT ALL THE damage in a fire comes from the actual burning of property. Many an unhappy business man has discovered that the ensuing water damage is also very expensive.

Particularly vulnerable are machinery, equipment and goods-in-process, all of which may be heavily damaged by the same water used to put out the fire. One of the newer methods of controlling fires is the use of foam.

A new high-expansion foam agent announced by Amerace Corporation's Penetone Chemical division is reported to eliminate excess wetting of the fire area. The agent is particularly useful where there is expensive machinery or electronic equipment that might be damaged by water. Oil companies with tank farms and airlines are users, too.

Elaborate equipment is not needed with the new product, and a foam eductor type nozzle may often be used to produce the foam where there is sufficient water pressure. The company points out that the foam is "non-hazardous" to personnel, and says that firemen are able to walk through it without protective masks.

HOMEOWNERS take notice! There's an aluminum cleaner for cooking utensils, windows and doors, lawn furniture and auto trim which is simply brushed on, allowed to set, wiped off, and then rinsed and dried to get the metal sparkling without rubbing, it's Airman William G. Parton II, son of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Parton of 21617 Palos Verdes Blvd., has been selected for technical training at Sheppard AFB, Tex., as a U. S. Air Force maintenance specialist. The airman recently completed basic training at Lackland AFB, Tex. His new school is part of the Air Training Command which conducts hundreds of specialized courses to provide technically trained personnel for the nation's aerospace force. Airman Parton was graduated from West High School in 1965.

The California State Fair's Night Show, discontinued last year because of a crowded evening entertainment schedule, is being brought back during the Fair's 1966 edition, Aug. 31-Sept. 11, because of public demand. Among the top-flight stars set to appear is Rufe Davis, known to viewers of television's "Petticoat Junction" as conductor Floyd Smoot on the Hooterville Cannonball.

claimed... "Spin-A-Bin," the latest in kitchen accessories, is said to make the housewife's lot easier because it is composed of five separate transparent containers for storing dry foods and merely needs to be spun for instant selection of food... A safety razor powered by a specially designed spring is claimed to have the same characteristics as an electric razor. Cutting action is gained by lateral vibration of the razor blade at a speed of 6,000 times a minute. One winding keeps the razor running for more than 3 minutes.

WHAT SHOULD it cost to repair your automobile after it's been in an accident? The job of determining the true cost in dollars and cents of auto wrecks, including everything from a dented fender to a completely smashed body, is taught to aspiring claims adjusters in an unusual school in Yonkers, N.Y. by Quality Adjustment Service, Inc., a subsidiary of C.I.T. Financial Corporation.

Trainees are shown how to go over each detail in a wreck and come up with a correct estimate, down to the last few pennies, on its repair. They are shown how to seek out hidden damage after an accident, the kind of thing that would escape a car owner or a superficially trained body shop man.

The trainees go to school six days a week for several weeks. As the course advances their testing becomes more arduous. At the end they are presented with badly wrecked cars and told to fill out detailed, item-by-item estimates on what it will cost to put the cars back into running condition.

After graduating and becoming full-time adjusters for Quality Adjustment Service, the men return to their home cities. Initially, they go out on job assignments under the close scrutiny of supervisors. Even after they are experienced, they must take regular refresher courses from a traveling clinic run by the C.I.T. affiliate. Quality Adjustment makes the services of its claims adjusters available to insurance companies throughout the country.

A LANGUAGE school claims it can teach you a foreign language in two weeks. It's a crash course; classes start at 8:15 a.m. and conclude at 7:30 in the evening, five days a week for two weeks. The cost is expensive, involving almost $2,000, but the school says it can give an average student a foreign vocabulary of 3,200 words.
