PARADE MARSHALS SAYS

Harbor, Airfields Should be Bombed

By REID L. BUNDY
Editor and Co-Publisher

Congressman F. Edward Hebert, Louisiana Democrat and ranking member of the House Armed Services Committee, spoke out strongly here yesterday against America's critics at home and suggested that Alcatraz might serve a useful purpose if reopened for those advocating that Americans refuse to serve in the military forces.

Numbered among the nation's leading "hawks" the 27-year House veteran told newsmen and civic leaders just before yesterday's Armed Forces Day parade that he would "bomb anything in North Vietnam that contributed as much as a stream" against the fight for freedom in that Southeast Asian country.

He denied that the Red Chinese would be drawn into the war, and said the United States shouldn't conduct its affairs there on the basis of what might happen.

"When you go into a fight, you should go in to win," he said.

HIS BOMBING targets would include oil depots, the Haiphong Harbor, factories, MIGS on the ground and in crates, airfields, and any other place that hurts our efforts in Vietnam.

Hebert is "strongly critical" of America's dissenters, and at one point yesterday likened Martin Luther King to Cuba's Castro.

He recalled how Castro had posed as a leader of his people and said he was going to lead them out of bondage then "as soon as he was in power, he boldly announced that he had been a Communist all along."

THE CONGRESSMAN said he did not believe King was a Communist, but that his tactics were about the same as Castro's in that he promised to lead his people out of bondage, and now is using that power for other purposes.

Pointedly alluding to King, Cassius Clay, and Stokely Carmichael, the Louisiana Congressman said all should be in jail. All those who are openly advocating defiance of our draft laws should be in jail, he said. He criticized the Justice Department, saying it had been lethargic on draft law prosecutions.

DRESSED IN a white suit, complete with vest and gold chain across the front, Hebert was the picture of a Southern Congressman, as he led the city's eighth annual Armed Forces Day Parade down Torrance Boulevard and past the civic center reviewing stand.

He was principal speaker at an Armed Forces Day luncheon in Inglewood following the Torrance parade.
